MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR, H.E. DR GOODLUCK EBELE JONATHAN, FORMER PRESIDENT, FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF NIGERIA

“Opportunities do not always favour those who have only the needed skills and competences but more so those with integrity and character.”

Dear graduands, parents, sponsors, and faculty, today we gather here to celebrate a significant milestone in your lives. The success of our students and children graduating today is a shared success of all of us. As Chancellor, it is my greatest honour to address you on this remarkable occasion and to share with you pieces of advice as our children graduate from university into the world of work and real life.

Graduation marks the culmination of years of hard work, dedication, and perseverance. It signifies the acquisition of knowledge, the development of critical thinking skills, and the nurturing of your intellectual curiosity. It is a testament to your resilience and determination to succeed in the face of challenges. However, your journey doesn't end here. It is just the beginning of a new chapter that holds immense potential and opportunities.

For this kind of ceremony, the university couldn't have thought of a better theme than what they have coined: Strengthening Academia/Industry Partnerships for Increasing Graduate Employability and Entrepreneurship. You, the graduands, soon-to-be graduates, are about to be released into the world to put into use your acquired knowledge, skills, and competencies. You will need either to find jobs or to startup ventures for self-employment. In today's rapidly evolving world, the demands of the job market are continually changing. Employers seek graduates who possess not only a solid academic foundation but also the practical skills and industry-relevant experiences necessary to excel in their chosen fields. This is where the collaboration between academia and industry becomes paramount.

Academia and industry partnerships foster a dynamic ecosystem that bridges the gap between theory and practice. By working hand in hand, universities and industries can co-create educational programmes that align with the needs of the job market. Through internships, cooperative education programmes, and collaborative research initiatives, students gain exposure to real-world challenges, develop a deeper understanding of industry dynamics, and enhance their employability. Today's Commencement Speaker has clearly explained this and I thank him for a job well done.

The partnerships between Academia and Industry provide a platform for industry professionals to share their expertise, mentor students, and offer invaluable insights into the workings of the corporate world. By tapping into this vast reservoir of knowledge and experience, graduates are better equipped to adapt to the rapidly changing landscape and contribute meaningfully to their respective industries.

Moreover, academia/industry partnerships also nurture the spirit of entrepreneurship among our graduates. They serve as incubators of innovation, fostering an environment that encourages students to think creatively, take risks, and develop an entrepreneurial mindset. By facilitating access to resources, mentorship, and networking opportunities, these partnerships provide a solid foundation for budding entrepreneurs to transform their ideas into successful ventures.

I applaud the leadership of Cavendish University Uganda for continuing to strengthen and expand these collaborations. Bringing here the CEO of the East African Business Council from Arusha, Tanzania, is highly commended. Academia must actively engage with industry leaders, stay abreast of emerging trends, and adapt their curricula to equip students with the skills that are in high demand. Simultaneously, industries should actively participate in shaping educational programmes, provide internships and apprenticeships, and support research and development initiatives as a sure way to get a productive workforce.

As I conclude, I congratulate each and every one of you on your remarkable achievements. The future holds infinite possibilities, and I have no doubt that you have received sufficient transformation of character and discipline in this university. Remember that opportunities do not always favour those who have only the needed skills and competencies but more so those with integrity and character. As you embark on this exciting journey, always remember the values instilled in you during your time here and strive to make a positive difference in the world.

As your Chancellor, you have all my blessings and encouragement, may all your dreams come true and may you succeed in all your endeavours.

SUCCESS BEGINS AT CAVENDISH

I extend my heartfelt congratulations to each and every one of our new graduates of the class of 2023. Today, as we gather to commemorate your remarkable achievements, we embrace the theme of this year’s graduation: “Strengthening academia-industry collaboration as a strategy to improve graduate employability and entrepreneurship.” This theme resonates deeply with our commitment to preparing our students for success in employment and entrepreneurship anywhere in the world.

As Chairman of the University Council, I call upon businesses and enterprises to embrace the concept of internships and temporary placements within their organizations. By opening your doors to our lecturers and students, you provide them with invaluable opportunities to gain practical experience, apply their knowledge, and develop the essential skills needed for the workforce. In return, businesses gain access to the best-trained graduates who are not only equipped with theoretical knowledge but are also job-ready, ensuring a seamless transition into their professional and technical roles.

Moreover, by fostering collaboration between academia and industry, we are nurturing a generation of graduates who are not confined by geographical boundaries. Our aim is to educate students who possess the skills, habits, ethics, and adaptability to excel anywhere in the world. By emphasizing internships and encouraging industry engagement, we expose our students to diverse professional environments, enabling them to thrive in global settings.

As we embark on this journey of strengthening academia-industry collaboration, let us remember the words of Mahatma Gandhi: “The future depends on what you do today.” By investing in this partnership, we are securing a brighter future for our graduates, our businesses, and our continent.

MESSAGE FROM THE VICE CHANCELLOR PROF. JOHN F. MUGISHA (PHD, FAIPH, FUNAS)

“The impact you make is not solely measured by personal success but by the positive change you bring to your communities and the world at large.”

Dear Graduands; This day marks the apex of gruelling years of hard work, resilience, and intellectual growth. Throughout your academic journey, you have been guided by the tireless efforts of our exceptional faculty, who have dedicated themselves to imparting knowledge, the 21st Century skills, and fostering the Cavendish Yearning for Learning (CYL). Today, we celebrate the remarkable accomplishments of each and every one of you, and we stand in astonishment of the transformative power of education.

The theme for this year’s graduation is: Strengthening Academia/Industry Partnerships as a strategy to improve Graduate Employability and Entrepreneurship. As we reflect upon the rapidly evolving landscape of the job market, it becomes increasingly evident that the demand for highly skilled and adaptable graduates is at an all-time high. The traditional boundaries that once separated academia and industry are blurring, and there is an urgent need for collaboration between these two spheres. The symbiosis of their relationship will be ably articulated by Mr. John Bosco Kalisa, the CEO of the East Africa Business Council based in Arusha, Tanzania who is our Commencement Speaker for the 2023 graduation. Academia and industry partnerships have the potential to create synergies that benefit all stakeholders. As CUU, we work closely with industry to ensure that the skills and knowledge imparted within our classrooms align with the needs of the job market. This collaboration facilitates the development of curricula that integrate theoretical foundations with practical experiences, equipping our graduates with the tools they need to thrive in the professional world. Engagement with industry professionals provides mentorship, networking opportunities, and exposure to emerging trends, thereby empowering our graduates to adapt to the ever-changing demands of the global market.

We will continue to actively foster an environment that encourages creativity, risk-taking, and problem-solving. We know that entrepreneurship centres, incubators, and start-up accelerators serve as the backbone of this ecosystem, providing aspiring entrepreneurs with access to mentorship, funding, and networking opportunities. By forging strong ties with industry partners, we shall leverage their expertise and resources to support the development and growth of student-led enterprises.

To the graduating class, I implore you to seize the opportunities that lie before you. You are equipped with the knowledge, skills, and resilience necessary to make a lasting impact on the world. Embrace the power of collaboration between academia and industry as you embark on your professional journey. You have today achieved a milestone that will forever be etched in your personal and professional journey. Carry the values instilled in you during your time at this university—integrity, excellence, and a thirst for knowledge—into the world. Remember that the impact you make is not solely measured by personal success but by the positive change you bring to your communities and the world at large. May your future endeavours be filled with boundless opportunities, profound fulfilment, and an unwavering commitment to excellence. I have no doubt that with your passion, skills, and the collaborative spirit between academia and industry, you will shape a brighter and more prosperous future for all.

May God Bless You.

MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR MR. DAVID MUTABANURA

“Success in life comes from a combination of 3 elements: the subject mastery you have gained at our university, the networks you (will) build, and your personal conduct.”

Today, our Cavendish University Uganda (“CUU”) Class of 2023 will walk out of the Speke Resort Munyonyo grounds as newly minted graduates of our University. As you do so, it is my pleasure and a privilege to congratulate you and to offer a few recollections about your time at CUU and the path that lies ahead.

Two months ago, on June 23rd, CUU marked 15 years since the university was founded. During the past decade and a half, so many milestones have been achieved including the graduation of more than 10,000 students who now span all corners of the globe, in a vast array of professions and making incalculable impact. Why is this important? Because it forms a springboard for your own success, through the inspiration and networks that they present, in industry, academia, government and non-governmental sectors, as formidable employees and entrepreneurs. Wherever your individual journeys may lead you in the years ahead, I hope that you continue to travel together, connecting as classmates and as alumni of CUU, in pursuit of better versions of yourselves and the world.

In recent years, our university has been successful in creating a very inspiring environment in which students, staff, parents and guardians work cohesively and purposefully in delivering unmatched quality digital education and in fostering strong and mutually rewarding collaborations.

This year, our university was voted again, for the 5th straight year, as Uganda’s leading private university by consumers. We also worked relentlessly with The Education Collaborative, a pan African consortium of higher education institutions committed to concrete and impactful graduate outcomes, which has led to the establishment of mutually beneficial and deeper relationships with similar minded higher education institutions in Uganda and the African region, supported our students and faculty in the development of their creative potential into self-confident leaders in their various fields.

We are proud that our students and alumni continued to consistently vote for us as providing work-appropriate higher education that outsizes our resources, enrolment, age, geographical location and other structural factors. The Inaugural Times Higher Education (THE) sub-Saharan Africa University Rankings released on 26th June 2023, confirmed this by placing Cavendish University Uganda in 05th position in Uganda and top 70 in Africa based on criteria that included financial resource adequacy, quality of teaching, diversity and inclusion, student engagement, research and policy impact.

The world has so many problems; it is therefore not looking for people to occupy jobs but, rather, for people to solve these many problems. This is what will make a difference for you. May you continuously think of how you can collaborate to make people happy and productive, solving problems as they emerge.

Success in life comes from a combination of 3 elements: the subject mastery you have gained at our university, and that you will gain after the networks you (will) build, and your personal conduct. Be deliberate about sharpening these keys and using them to open the doors of your dreams.

Congratulations and best wishes for your time ahead!

MESSAGE FROM THE DEPUTY VICE CHANCELLOR-ACADEMIC AFFAIRS; DR. OLIVE SABIITI

“You are torchbearers of change with the power to influence and inspire others. Embrace this responsibility with humility and courage.”

Today is a momentous occasion—a day of celebration, reflection, and new beginnings. We honour the achievements of our Graduating Class of 2023.

The theme, “Strengthening Academia-Industry Collaboration as a Strategy to Improve Graduate Employability and Entrepreneurship,” reflects our vision for education, encompassing practicality, innovation, and transformation beyond textbooks and lectures. This synergy empowers our graduates for success.

The global job market is dynamic, shaped by technology and societal needs. Innovations like ChatGPT have helped us access information and solve problems. Leveraging such advances is imperative for graduates as it enhances innovation and employability. We have prepared you well and are confident that you are work-ready. Through collaborative efforts, we have empowered you with the skills and competencies in high demand—the skills that unlock doors to success. Partnerships with industry players have enriched our curricula, giving graduates a competitive edge. In June, we showcased our academia-industry partnerships at the Education Collaboration Convening of African Higher Education Institutions in Ghana.

Law students engage with Industry Clinical Legal Education and the weekly Moots. Business, Socio-Economic Sciences, Health, Science and Technology, students actively engage with industry through various avenues, gaining valuable experiences. We call on industry to recognise the value of fresh perspectives and academic rigour, and open their doors to offer mentorship and research opportunities so we together can create an agile, skilled workforce for innovation.

We urge Industry to recognise the value of fresh perspectives and academic rigour, and open wider doors to offer mentorship and research opportunities. We can create an adaptive, skilled workforce to drive innovation and address challenges.

Graduates, remember that you carry with you not only the knowledge you have acquired, the power of critical thinking, and the spirit of inquiry, but also the legacy of Cavendish University Uganda—excellence, integrity, innovation and ethical leadership. Remain steadfast in your values, for they are the compass that will guide you through the most turbulent of times. You are torchbearers of change with the power to influence and inspire others. Embrace this responsibility with humility and courage. Stay curious, be lifelong learners, adapt to evolving industry demands, and impact the world.

To Families and Faculty, we extend heartfelt gratitude for shaping exceptional individuals. We celebrate your collective achievements and appreciate your sacrifices.
